Coach Dennis is beginning his fourth season at the helm of the Kalamazoo Valley Men’s Basketball program and this year should be an exciting one. With a host of returning players on the perimeter including point guard Davonte Harris, shooting guards Jibreel Hussien and Jeremy Williamson, along with athletic swing man Jaylen Norwood and hybrid four man Tevis Robinson, the Cougars should be able to run and defend right away.

With the addition of some talented freshmen and transfers, the Cougars should have solid perimeter play. Freshmen Terry Davis and Jacob Watts-Jenkins, along with Rick White, add athleticism, scoring, and defensive pressure while redshirt freshmen guards Tony Wimberly and Brian Harris add depth to the backcourt. Transfer, Tommy Cerven, will add another sharp shooter to a strong outside scoring attack.

The Cougars lost last year’s two leading scorers and rebounders, Jaylen Larry and Jevonte Hughes, and look to fill these holes with a trio of freshmen big men including Devin Conley, Jack Binegar, and Hunter Powell. The addition of two athletic four man freshmen Arrieon Browning and transfer Devrin Hill, will allow for the Cougars to have versatile offensive and defensive strategies.

The return of sophomore Nate Casanto is also highly anticipated. After a season-ending hip surgery during last year’s pre-season, Nate looks to bring his solid work ethic and knowledge of the game to help the team reach its full potential.

Coach Dennis had this to say about this year’s team, “I think this may be the most balanced team I have had. This group is pretty solid academically, has good basketball I.Q., and has the talent and athleticism to compete in the MCCAA Western Conference each night. The true test will be how well everyone will mesh together and how quickly the new players will adjust to our ‘team first’ culture in order to compete early on and to be ready for conference play in January.”

SEASON OUTLOOK

Some say every year of community college level basketball is a re-building year. That may not be true for the 2014-15 Lady Cougars.

With seven returning sophomores from last year’s seventh ranked and 15-1 conference co-champions, and two sophomores from the prior year’s 24-5 conference champions, this year’s version of the tradition-rich Cougars is as deep as they have been since the 2003-04 team that ended the regular season ranked #1 in the country.

The sophomores are led statistically by post player Mallory Sewell, who averaged 13 points and 8 rebounds per contest last year. Sewell may have given a glimpse of what’s to come this year when she finished the season with five straight 20+ point and 10+ rebound performances to end last season.

Guards Brooke Martin (6.9 ppg.), Taylor Leach (6.1 ppg.) and Destiny Froberg (6.0 ppg.) bring back experience and fire power. Add in a healthy shooter in Stephanie Cochran, a spectacular athlete in Fallon Froberg, and a more experienced, healthy post player Akua Bobo, and Coach Welch can certainly pick and choose from a lot of weapons. “These are not kids who sat on the bench and watched,” said Welch. “They will all have a positive impact on the success of the Lady Cougars this year!”

Post player Khadijah Seawood (KD) returns after concentrating on her studies for a year. KD was the conference Freshman of the Year in the 2012-13 season. Joining KD is point guard Christina Thurber who sat out last year after a knee injury that required surgery. Thurber had the distinction of scoring the second triple double in Lady Cougar history with a 25 point, 12 rebound, 10 assist game against Jackson. “Obviously these two are going to add significantly to our team,” said Welch. “They have both worked hard to overcome some adversity and I’m really happy for them —and for us!”

Perhaps the final piece of the puzzle is what Coach Welch is calling “a really good freshman class that will battle the sophomores for time on the floor.”
